

From the First Generation of nuclear power...

...to the Next Generation of nuclear plants

Sargent & Lundy is the trusted partner-of-choice for successful projects. Our clients rely on our technical excellence, innovative strategies, and project leadership to deliver cost-effective results for operating plant initiatives and new station development. Our leading-edge engineering and project services are founded on 63 years in nuclear power, 126 years in power, and a focus on helping each client achieve the most with their nuclear assets.
