

“These outage improvements were truly refreshing for the plant.”

— Ben Grambau,
Manager, PWR Reactor
Services

Together, writing stories of success.

Change is needed for future viability. When work is always performed the same way with a single vendor, it can be difficult to see how to improve. Recognizing their need for fresh ideas, a utility brought in Framatome to perform refueling, reactor services, steam generator services and reactor coolant pump field services.

An extensive transition plan ensured a seamless move to a more efficient model and was completed without needing any OEM intellectual property.

The plant met a 22-day outage goal with best practices from a proactive, flexible partner.
