

Certainty.

Operating a reactor is a complex, expert process —

So is taking one apart.

When it comes to shutdown reactors, we are the experts in accelerated decommissioning and used nuclear fuel management.

The ADP companies' decades of successful experience bring certainty to all aspects of the project—from engineering, segmentation and packaging to demolition, waste transport and site remediation.

Our flexible decommissioning business model enables a variety of risk transfer strategies from a solid financial basis, including specific facility decommissioning or complete site transfer, plus used fuel ownership and ISFSI management.

Experience the value of project certainty.
